

Employment Opportunity – Raceday Swab Official (Northern Rivers & Mid-North Coast)

Racing NSW is the representative body appointed for leadership and regulation of thoroughbred horse racing throughout NSW. Its responsibilities include protecting the image, interests and integrity of racing.

One of Racing NSW's key functions is the management of a rigorous and robust drug control program to ensure the highest level of industry integrity is maintained.

An excellent opportunity has now arisen for a casual swab official within primarily the Mid North Coast Racing Association (MNCRA) and part of the Northern Rivers Racing Association (NRRA). The area to be serviced being that between Taree and Coffs Harbour.

The primary responsibility of a swab official is the collection of urine samples from thoroughbred horses at race meetings for subsequent drug testing.

The successful applicants will possess the following skills:

- High standard of integrity
- Diligence
- Professionalism
- Ability to communicate effectively with people
- Ability to handle, and be in close proximity with, horses
- Ability to work well under pressure
- Ability to work both independently and as part of a team
- Valid driver's licence

The Raceday Swab Official is a casual position that requires, on average, 2 days service a week. Such commitments being on irregular days, including weekends and public holidays, at varying racecourses. As such the successful applicant will require flexible personal commitments to accommodate the role.

As this is an integrity-based role, any potential applicant will be required to disclose any conflict of interest, perceived or otherwise, with industry participants. The successful applicants will undergo a probity check.

If you feel you possess the skills and personal circumstances required for the role of Raceday Swab Official within the NRRA & MNCRA, please outline such detail in a covering letter and provide your résumé by email to NRRA Chief Steward, Mr Mark Holloway (mholloway@racingnsw.com.au) by Tuesday, 22 February 2022.
